Leicester Grammar School ranks as one of the most successful co-educational schools in the UK.

The wonderful facilities complement the high quality of teaching and learning that goes on within them and all work to support the school’s overall philosophy: that the pursuit of excellence and the continued investment in staff and school will deliver the highest academic achievements for all its students. Leicester Grammar School was established in 1981 and moved into a renovated school building in 2008.

High-quality teaching is complemented by modern teaching facilities, adhering to the philosophy of pursuing excellence and continuous investment in teaching staff and schools. In addition, the school attaches great importance to students’ after-school life and has always created an environment that can provide a variety of extra-curricular activities.
